

CIGARETTES

Partagas D4 290

A spicy cigar with interesting stages that make it one of the biggest selling Cuban cigars in the world. You will also pick up hints of cedar and wood.

Gauge: 50 | Strength: Medium

Romeo y Julieta Wide Churchill 320

There's an underlying toastiness to this smoke, which is well layered with notes of spice, fruit and leather.

Gauge: 55 | Strength: Medium

Romeo y Julieta Short Churchill 280

The smoke from this oily robusto imparts a bold, leathery quality, with Graham cracker and coffee notes that build to a salt and pepper finish. The draw is lush, and the burn even.

Gauge: 50 | Strength: Medium-Full

Cohiba Siglo VI 590

There's a strong leathery, nutty quality to the smoke of this dark, oily cigar. Notes of brown sugar, espresso and dried berries also emerge before the rich, chocolate finish. The draw is a bit firm, but the combustion is even, slow and cool.

Gauge: 52 | Strength: Medium-Full

Cohiba Behike 56 1100

It's toasty and grassy with some drier notes of wood and hay, and richer notes of walnut and café au lait. The finish is rather easygoing. The "Rolls Royce" of Cuban cigars.

Gauge: 56 | Strength: Medium

Monte Cristo Eagle 470

It burns unevenly but draws well, offering a heady combination of savoury wood and nutty notes. The finish is sweet with marzipan and saffras.

Gauge: 54 | Strength: Medium

H Upmann Mag 56 470

Gleaming and oily with a reddish-brown hue, this robusto starts quite strong with a spicy procession of black, red and white pepper. The spice settles for woody notes of cedar and oak before a herbal finish that carries a slight sourness.

Gauge: 56 | Strength: Medium-Full

HOYO DE MONTERREY Epicure 340

Creamy notes of coffee and hazelnut layer the palate like a café au lait, but a tangy undertone is a zesty foil to sweeter notes of honey, nougat and a hazelnut liqueur finish.

Gauge: 50 | Strength: Medium

Own brand custom 390

A hand-picked Nicaraguan cigar specially selected by our in-house consultant. Hints of sweet cedary notes with slight nutty tastes and lingering sweet orange peel.

Gauge: 60 | Strength: Medium
